Art Mallett Jr. joins panel alongside NASA and AR Tech representatives to discuss aerospace textile applications

Bristol, Pa., June 1, 2015 – Art Mallett Jr. will be speaking alongside NASA and AR Tech representatives to discuss Aerospace Textile Applications at Techtextil North America 2015. Mallett will discuss the history and challenges of spacecraft thermal control and review how various types of woven and nonwoven fabrics have revolutionized spacecraft thermal protection and enabled spacecraft to travel to more extreme environments. Techtextil North America is dedicated to technical textiles and nonwovens. The symposium assembles all aspects of the technical textile industry from development, through material production and applications.
